Stelnicki, Apache, on top after “A” session

Red Star keeps Navs out of first, Chippewa close in third

By Max Tunnicliffe

A lot has happened in the sports world since the last edition of the Deerhorn Sun. We had the first Sunday Event, an intense scalp game, and discovered that the race in the quest to win the summer is very close. In the last Scalp game of “A” session, the Navajo won the first game, the Chippewa won the second, and the Apache took the last two. Navajo regained momentum by winning both the “Leader plus two game” and the leader game. The Iroquois have yet to win a regular scalp game. Meanwhile, in the first Sunday event, the Treasure Hunt, it looked like the Navajo were destined to take first place. Griff Parry was way ahead in the kayaking part after his campers found all the items they needed to find very quickly. However, the Apache and Charlie Stelnicki ended up in front of the Navs as Parry lost some time in the biking part of the competition. On the final day of the session the stars were counted and the standings were released. In a wildly close race, the Apache came in first by the margin of a single red star. The Navajo finished second, the Chips third (trailing Apache by only 375 points), and the Iroquois fourth, 3,000 points out of first. Sports beat writer Max Tunnicliffe sat down with Stelnicki, the leader of the first place Apache.

Tunnicliffe: How does it feel to be leading the first place Apache?

Stelnicki: It feels great, I’m really proud of my team.

Tunnicliffe: How do you think the Apache can stay in first the rest of the summer?

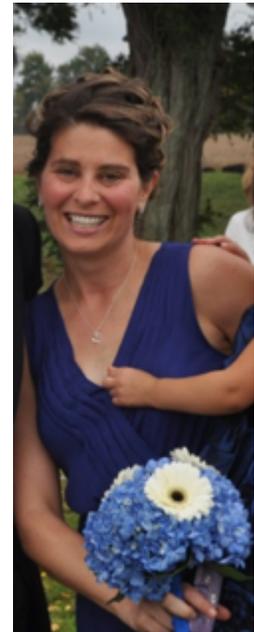

Stelnicki: By hard work, determination, and red stars.

Tunnicliffe: How excited were you when you won the Treasure Hunt?

Stelnicki: I actually didn’t know we won at first but when it hit me it was a super cool feeling.

A Sit-Down with Amy

By Alex Polovin

Alex: How do you think the Broadbridges are doing running Camp?

Amy: We are working very hard to keep Deerhorn running so that the next generation can enjoy camp. Teamwork is the key.

Alex: What is your favorite thing about camp?

Amy: Being part of people's lives and the amazing friendships that are made

Alex: How would you keep camp running forever?

Amy: Be willing to work together to care about others and not being afraid to ask for help.

Alex: If you could add an activity to camp, what would it be?

Amy: An adventure activity. Something like zip lining, a climbing wall, or a ropes course.

Alex: How do you think the camp dogs have been behaving?

Amy: We have dogs that behave amazingly well, but it would be nice if Katniss would let people pet her.

Alex: What do you think of our evening activities?

Amy: I think Ryan and Kiana are doing an awesome job.

If you have a question about camp, find Alex Polovin and your question may be featured in next week's edition of the Deerhorn Sun!

Fun Deerhorn Facts

By JP Rocha

-The sister camp for Deerhorn no longer exists, but it was called Bryn Afon.

-The Navajo team hasn't won the summer since 2003.

-Although Deerhorn started in 1930, the Deerhorn teams began in 1958, when "Big D" took over. Since then....

- The Apache have won 17 times
- The Chippewa have won 15 times
- The Navajo have won 13 times
- The Iroquois have won 12 times

-In 1965 the Navajo and the Chippewa tied

-In the mid 70s to the 80s a character only known as Bosco came to camp to perform magic shows.

Leader spotlight: Patrick Drake

By Jake Menz

Patrick Drake, from Wilmette, Illinois, is the 2015 Chippewa leader. Patrick chose to lead the Chippewa because he was a member of the Chips during his voyager year, and although he had been on all 4 camp teams, the most fun he had was on the Chippewa last summer. Patrick believes that in order to win the summer, he has to keep communication within the members of his team strong. He needs to encourage his teammates and lead by example by getting all members of his team to work together and participate in all activities. He believes that if this is accomplished, they have a shot at winning the summer. “Being a leader is awesome. It’s something I’ve been looking forward to since last fall, and I’m happy to be here.” Patrick looks to build off of a strong A session and having a fun and competitive B session squad.

Cookies Corner

By Erik Persson

Hello B session campers! I am Erik (Cookies) Persson. I am your food critic and will be sharing my advice on what to eat and what the best meals are in camp. As always, we start with breakfast. It always makes me happy when we start the day off with cinnamon rolls. They are filling and taste pretty good. Another good meal was the 4th of July pancakes, as they were patriotic and tasted better than they looked. I know that some people. Including my friend Bear, wanted the biscuits and gravy yto have a little more kick to them, but I digress. One thing this week that made me sad was having bagels and fish patties in the same day, as I personally don’t love those meals. This brings me to lunch. Sloppy Joes and Italian Subs are my favorites. The candies being passed out at lunch have been pretty solid – Charleston Chew’s are a camper favorite. Dinner is also very important. Beef and pasta is a great meal that fills you up. My only complaint about the food this week would be that there were not enough cookies passed out last Sunday.
